

DIXON BOYS WILL ATTEND MEETING OF OLDER BOYS

Dozen Local Lads to Go to Galesburg for Conference.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week will see the Tenth Annual State Older Boys' Conference at Galesburg. Such interest has been shown in these conferences in Northern Illinois that this year the number has been limited to one thousand boys. A larger delegation from Dixon might have been sent but for the fact that the quota has been kept down to 13. This number has been made up by the city Sunday School—the Y. M. C. A. providing the leader to go with the delegation.

The State Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices the conference is being held, has lined up a strong list of speakers including Dr. John Timothy Stone, well known Chicago Presbyterian preacher; C. C. Robinson of New York who is a specialist in employed boys' work; H. W. Gibson, famous author of boy books and many such outstanding men. The purpose of this conference is to bring older boys and adult leaders together, representing every organization engaged in constructive work with older boys, to discuss life problems together, to receive inspiration and information from strong speakers of National reputation, and to prepare them for Christian leadership among their fellows.

The local delegation will be under the leadership of Elmer Rice, Boys' Secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., who is well qualified for this task. The delegates appointed by the city churches are:

Methodist—Frederic Ball, Eugene Voth, Holland, Myron Smith.
Presbyterian—Mark Kelly, Curtis Gardner, Donald Raymond.
Christian—Wm. Rhodes, Harold Herbert.
Lutheran—Wm. Johnson.
Baptist—Gilman Calkins, Stanley Burd.

DIXON HIGH'S IN POOR SHAPE FOR TURKEY DAY

Team Will Be Crippled Seriously to Meet Sterling Team.

The Dixon high school football team is slowly recovering from the rough game with Ottawa a week ago. Saturday and Sunday preparation for Thursday's battle with Sterling. Injuries sustained in the Ottawa clash have proven to be more serious than anticipated, and one of the best players are slow in recovering. Harold Jones, the only forward passer on the team, is still in bed expecting to have his leg in a cast so he can be out to see the game. "Red" Lahey's nose is still bandaged and it is doubtful if he will be able to start the Turkey Day battle, but that is about all. Gardner will be unable to play, being down in his studies.

These four places are proving to be hard ones to fill. However, the football fans can be sure that Coach Bowen will send the best fighting combination possible on the field Thursday, a team that will fight until the last whistle is blown and one that the high school can be proud of under the existing conditions.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

There are wardrobes for $20, $35 and $50 a week salaries complete.

GLEE CLUB AND ORCHESTRA WILL PLAY IN DIXON

Wartburg College Organizations Will Appear Wednesday Eve.

Tomorrow evening the Wartburg College orchestra of Clinton, Ia., will give a concert under the auspices of the Wartburg League of the Immanuel Lutheran church, at the south side Dixon High School auditorium, consisting of instrumental and vocal selections.

This orchestra, which has the reputation of being the best amateur orchestra among the schools of Iowa, comes to Dixon with excellent recommendations from other cities. The fact that this organization has toured twelve states, speaks for the popularity and demand which it has created. Composed of about twenty musicians, each the master of his instrument, the orchestra has been worked up to a high standard by hard practice. The program is composed of several classic selections chosen because of their appeal to former audiences. Besides, there are numerous lighter numbers of modern composers, as marches and descriptive fantasies. There are also several songs, some of which are new.

The College Glee Club composed of eight voices chosen from the personnel of the orchestra will also contribute to the program. To one who has heard this organization this is sufficient description. Their numbers are well-known folk songs, several secular numbers, and also sacred songs.

As a whole the program is a very pleasing one. There is something for old and young included. Music lovers are urged to attend this musical treat.

NO ONE WANTS TO TAKE CHANCE WITH FORMING CABINET

As Result Germany is Still Without Accepted Cabinet.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, who at President Ebert's request had been endeavoring to form a ministry, abandoned the effort today because of his inability to find sufficient Reichstag support.

President Ebert thereupon begun negotiating with the leaders of the Bourgeois parties for the formation of a five party bloc uninclusive of the socialists.

An alternative suggestion which apparently was relegated to the rear for the time being at least, in favor of the five party attempt was an effort to form a cabinet composed of representatives of the German nationalists, centrists and German people's parties.

A candidate for the post of chancellor in such a cabinet was Dr. Jarres, minister of the interior in the Stresemann cabinet.

WITHOUT GOVERNMENT

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 27.—Dr. Heinrich Albert has relinquished the task of forming a ministry for the German Reich, says an agency dispatch from Berlin.

Germany thus is still without a government after four days since the resignation of the Stresemann ministry which, however, is still nominally functioning.

Dr. Albert's lack of success was attributed to the decision of the political parties in the Reichstag to oppose a non-partisan cabinet.

STUDENT'S DEATH Baffles Effort OF AUTHORITIES

Murder of Youth in Chicago Fails to Yield Clues.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 27.—The slaying of Freeman L. Tracy, 23, former University of Chicago student and recently a highly paid technician, is furnishing an unsolved mystery for police. Tracy was found shot to death in the university street Sunday. No apparent motive has been established. First thought that jealousy may have prompted the crime was later discarded by police. An inquest was continued. Daniel Murphy, who claims to have driven Tracy to within a short distance of his home early Sunday, was held, while William Ambrose, with whom Tracy was reported to have quarreled over union matters, was released after questioning.

Detectives believe Tracy went to a political club after leaving Murphy and became involved in a quarrel. Traces of blood on the floor and a wash bowl there indicating a fight. Four women and one man were taken into custody early today for questioning. A bloodstained automobile, abandoned in a suburb, also was located.

Dame Asquith Saves Brother in Address

Glasgow, Nov. 27.—Margot Asquith, wife of the foreign premier, was the dove of peace to a riotous political meeting here last night.

When her brother, H. J. Tennant, liberal candidate, started to speak he was subjected to noisy interruptions which grew into general roynism.

In the midst of the turmoil Mrs. Asquith mounted the platform and announced:

"This is my brother. You have a perfect right to come here but no right to do what you are doing now. Those who don't want to listen can go."

Some of the hecklers went but most of the audience remained.

Judge to Rule on Pleas of Grommes-Ullrich Rum Deal

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 27.—Federal Judge Evans today rejected the pleas of nine defendants in the trial of the Grommes & Ullrich "rum dividend" case, but dismissed Carl M. Behrens, former vice president of an outlying bank, and Samuel Mendelson, a sacramental wine dealer.

The defense submitted stories published in morning papers that the judge had held the dissolution and distribution of liquor illegal and that the millionaires who bought shares and received liquor had received it illegally. It developed that only one juror had read the stories but the court denied a motion to withdraw the juror and refused to allow the newspaper stories to be put on record.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 27.—Federal Judge Evans was expected today to rule on motions of defense attorneys in the Grommes & Ullrich liquor distribution case for a direct verdict on the ground of insufficient evidence.

The judge indicated during arguments on the motions for a judicial ruling that he was not inclined to grant the cases of four defendants, while for the others, he said he believed enough evidence had been offered to continue the trial.

AMBOY-SUBLETTE ROUTE IN DANGER IF BLOCKED LONG

Failure to Secure Right of Way Will Divert Highway.

Amboy and Sublette road enthusiasts who have been working for the location of the state concrete highway between these towns are alarmed over new developments in the situation which may result in the routing of the highway over another road. Failure to secure right of way dedications in both Amboy and Sublette townships is responsible for the new turn in affairs.

The state requires that the right of way be secured without cost to the state and in this county it is up to the townships through which the route passes to secure the right of way. The state has opened bids on grading and bridges on the Sublette-Amboy route and the bids are said to be acceptable, but the state highway department has taken the stand that it will not let the contracts until the right of way is completely cleared and all the dedications secured.

Unless some money is secured, the Amboy-Sublette right of way is cleared up within a short time the state highway department will find it necessary to abandon its project on that route and seek to bring the road through to Dixon on another route. If the right of way had been secured clear through between Amboy and Sublette there would be nothing to prevent the state from clearing up the contracts, but under the present circumstances the road boosters in those two towns and along the route have cause for grave doubts as to the successful completion of their plans.

AUTOMOBILE IS CALLED WEAPON IN SLAYING CASE

Springfield Man Put on Trial for Killing Pedestrian.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 27.—Trial of Robert Kelly, Illinois Central engineer, on a charge of slaying a pedestrian, in which the automobile is named as the "deadly weapon" by which Wenzel met death, will probably start today in the Sangamon County Circuit Court. The morning four jurors had been selected.

It is the first case ever heard in this county, it was said, in which the automobile is named as a weapon in the slaying of a pedestrian. Kelly drove his automobile recklessly and sideswiped a wagon in front of Formera's home, west of the city, killing Wenzel Formera, who was standing by the wagon.

Counsel for Kelly will contend that Formera was in the right of way and could not be seen in the dark. They will also call attention to the fact that Kelly reported immediately afterward at the police station here.

Government Recovers 38 Per Cent on Sale of War Dept. Property

Washington, Nov. 27.—Sale of War Department properties acquired during the war and declared to possess no military value for the government in peace time had returned $94,571,720 to the treasury, reports today, according to the annual report of Assistant Secretary Dwight Davis. The returns made in the 1923 fiscal year totaled $70,447,742, the remainder being made in 1922 and previously.

An analysis of the returns and costs of the properties disposed of shows that the average percentage of recovery was 38 percent. The cost value of the property still on hand for disposition at the same time was $117,828,248, of which $72,562,416 represented the cost of land and buildings.

The report shows that the War Department still faces a gigantic task in finally adjusting war contracts. The War Transactions Board, created for the purpose of taking an administrative investigation of war contracts in cooperation with a similar board appointed by the Attorney General, has reported that it has made a good start, and "promises much toward the rational and final settlement of war transactions."

The majority of the cases now before the War Department Board are those on which payments were withheld in part or in whole until the government determined whether it had a possible action for recovery by the Attorney General on grounds of fraud or other illegal procedure.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 27.—Representative John C. McKenzie has sent word from his home in Illinois that he would oppose expenditure of additional government funds on the Muscle Shoals project. It was announced at his office today he would fight the proposal of Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee to replace the Gorgas Steam Power Co. as a preliminary step to sale of the property to Henry Ford.

In the last congress Mr. McKenzie was ranking republican on the house military affairs committee, which after an investigation of offers for Muscle Shoals recommended its sale to Mr. Ford. Mr. McKenzie, according to his secretary, favors such a sale, but is opposed to making it contingent upon duplication at government expense of the Gorgas plant.

Talk Pending Laws.
Pension legislation was discussed with President Coolidge today by Representative Fuller, republican, Illinois, who announced he would reintroduce a general pension bill similar to that passed by the last congress, but vetoed by President Harding.

Proportional increases would be granted veterans and widows of veterans of the Mexican and Spanish-American wars.

Senator Lodge called a number of republican leaders into conference. They included Senators Watson of Indiana, who communicated to Senator Cummins yesterday the substance of the commonwealth chairmanship, and McCormick of Illinois.

The republican senate leaders were quiet after their conference. Senator Lodge said Senator Cummins, having been elected president, would remain in that post until a successor should be chosen.

House progressives appointed a committee to negotiate with the republican party to house organization and modification of rules.

BANDITS FORCED COP TO DRIVE 'EM AWAY AFTER CRIME

Kidnapped Officer and Divided Loot While He Drove Auto.

Joplin, Mo., Nov. 27.—With a captured policeman driving their automobile, four bandits who help up the Bank of Asbury, Mo., yesterday drove to freedom.

The kidnapped officer was Clarence Allison, motorcycle patrolman who engaged the men single handed in a field near Crestline, Kas., only to be overpowered.

Several hours after the robbery, Allison came upon the quartette on a road near Crestline and opened fire. The bandits abandoned their car, taking to a field. Allison pursued, taking captive three of the men.

He had marched his prisoners only a few yards when he felt a gun pressed against his back and heard a command, "Drop that gun." It was the fourth bandit, Allison complied.

With the officer under guard, the bandits commandeered a car belonging to J. A. Lucas of Columbus, Kas.

Allison was forced to take the wheel with a bandit as guard. The car was driven to Commerce, Oklahoma and under cover of darkness the men released Allison near the Missouri-Oklahoma line while they fled.

The officer made his way back to Joplin, Mo., where he was chattered and divided their loot while he was driving.

Approximately $1,200 was obtained by the robbers.

CONSPIRACY TO KEEP GOVERNOR OUT OF PRIMARY

Such Is Purpose of Civil Suits, He Tells Big Audience.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Lincoln, Ill., Nov. 27.—Governor Len Small prophesied at the celebration connected with the opening of the Chicago-Springfield Highway here today, that Attorney General Lewis and his attorneys prosecuting the "civil suits," would "bring that case up for trial to keep me in court from now until the April primary so that I cannot tell the truth to the people of Illinois."

"They kept me in court six months before the last primary," the Governor told his audience, "in order to elect a legislature which would impeach me. They are trying to keep me out of the same car which tried in Waukegan, and have brought them up in the Sangamon County Circuit Court in connection with cases against other state treasurers, as at Waukegan, to make it look fair."

"Did they try them? Not for a moment. They have dismissed the cases against the reds, to start these suits in chancery because they knew I could not get a jury there."

Call His Case First.
"And because they wanted to keep me in court, they have called my case first, not in the order they filed it, and not in the order of office. I prophesy now, and see if I do not prophesy correctly, they will bring that case up for trial to keep me in court from now until the primary in April. They are crooks and cowards, afraid to trust the people of Illinois."

"I am willing and glad to leave the question to the people and indeed all I ask is the opportunity of telling the truth."

Governor Small left at noon for Chicago to speak tonight from the same platform with Hiram Johnson, candidate for president.

PANEL SYSTEM SAVED MINERS IN EXPLOSION

Blast at West Frankfort Blamed on One of Men Killed.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
West Frankfort, Ill., Nov. 27.—The explosion of Mine Number 1 of the Chicago, Wilmington & Franklin Coal Co., yesterday, probably was caused by a stickup in the mine. Two men killed, who had attempted to recover a set of tools he left in a worked out room, according to officials.

Odle they said, was climbing over a pile of debris and his torch probably ignited the gas which had accumulated at the top of the room.

Nine men were still in hospital today, three having gone home. Physicians said all probably would recover.

The fact that approximately 900 men were in the mine at the time without a scratch, was the chief topic of conversation today. All agreed it was the room, or "panel" system, that allowed so many to get to the surface unharmed. This is a system whereby a certain portion of the mine is worked at a time and after all the coal is dug, the partition is closed up.

Men in the mine at the time of the blast said their greatest worry in making their way out was their inability to determine if they were going to work or away from the compartment where the explosion occurred. This compartment was about one mile and a quarter from the main entrance of the mine. The investigation of the explosion. The investigation committee included Francis Devlin, member of the state mining board; Robert M. Medill and Martin Bolt, outgoing and incoming director of the state department of mines and minerals, respectively.

Today's Market Report

All Grains Closed Firm on Exchange

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 27.—Influenced chiefly by strength of corn, wheat advanced today. Aggressive buying of corn was based on a falling off in receipts, the estimated arrivals of corn today being only about 100 cars, much below normal. Besides, the market was not so much smaller than a year ago. Wheat after opening unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, Dec. 1.02 1/4¢ and May 1.07 1/4¢, rallied to well above yesterday's finish.

With but little disposition shown to press the selling side, no important reaction took place in the later trading. Prices closed firm 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ net higher Dec. 1.02 1/4¢ to 1.03 and May 1.07 1/4¢ to 1.08 1/4¢.

Corn, which opened unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, May 72 3/4¢ to 73 1/4¢ climbed as much as 1¢ a bushel before upturn was checked.

Oats, in sympathy with corn, started a shade to 1/4¢ higher, May 44 1/4¢ and later scored slight gains.

Provisions were easy.

Later the corn market scored further gains with shorts covering freely and offering readily absorbed. The close was strong 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ net higher May 74 1/4¢ to 75 1/4¢.

MAN'S PLEATED SHIRT HAS ENTERED WOMAN'S REALM

COPYRIGHT BY M. CALLS

It happens every once in a while that women's fashions, tired of frills, adapt some part of men's costume to their own use. That's what has happened to the pleated shirt bosom, as the sketches show.

While it was part of man's attire

it hid shyly behind a vest. Now it shows its outline brazenly—a pleated shirt front—nothing less.

The frocks are tailored ones, suitable to charwomen, fine twill or jersey. The blouse is very smart, that would put the finishing fashion touch to a new tailored suit.

very little water to prevent burning until the apples begin to bake. Make a dough of the flour, salt and baking powder sifted together, the butter rubbed in with the tips of the fingers and the water cut in with a knife. Spread over apples and bake in a moderate oven until apples are done. Serve warm with sugar and cream.

Apple dumplings are made with this same dough. The dough is rolled about three-eighths of an inch thick. Cut in circles and arrange sliced apples in center. Pull edges of dough together and bake in a moderate oven. Baste with hot water. The apples are seasoned as in Brother Jonathan.

HEALTHGRAMS

Out of 3485 school children examined in four of the larger cities of the state 2337, or 67 per cent, were found to have unfilled, decayed teeth, according to a report from the health department. A change of diet for prospective mothers, mothers and young children is recommended as the means of avoiding this lamentable condition in the future.

A man of forty years today might easily have had a grandfather whose finest farm equipment was a yoke of oxen and a crude plow. Still a lot of folks contend that what was good enough for their father is good enough for them. To maintain health and survive, a man must keep himself reasonably well adjusted to his environment and this keeps him hustling nowadays, says the state health authorities.

A good way to add to your income during spare time is to spend leisure hours playing with the children in the open air and sunshine says the Literary Digest. Amen, says the state director of public health.

Sixty out of the 100 prostitutes recently arrested in Peoria were found to be infected with social diseases, says a bulletin from the state health department. Young men (or old ones) for that matter, who neglect "house out" in the face of such facts ought to receive scant sympathy when the harvest comes.

Double standards have doubly damned many innocent women and children says the state health commissioner. A large percentage of pauperism and a considerable proportion of insanity and poverty are really the fruits of evil doing, if the truth were known.

Autumn and winter is the time when the mercury falls and the infectious disease rate rises, says the state health department. The position of the earth in relation to the sun accounts for the former while the position of the sun and moon in relation to the earth accounts for the latter. Out-of-door air and sunshine tends to keep children well and happy.

Illinois produces the finest corn, the finest apples and the finest wheat on earth. Why not make her produce the finest physically equipped people on earth? The same intensive study, the same application of scientific principles and the same expenditure of time and money toward raising human stock as is directed along the other lines would do the trick, he declares.

The Golden Rule is a great ethical measuring rod applicable to all acts of mankind but nowhere can it produce more far-reaching and beneficial results than in the field of health. A person can recover financial or emotional health when selfishness drives one to break quarantine or conceal contagious disease the way is opened for irreparable illness and calamity to stalk forth into a neighbor's home.

Illinois last year. Over 50,000 industrial accidents were reported. Of the 4515 accidental deaths automobiles accounted for 1908. Railroads stood next highest with 577, while drowning and burns came next in order with 779,345 and 397 fatalities charged against each respectively.

Murder and suicide together accounted for 1532 deaths last year in Illinois, an average of more than four per day and a total mortality which is considerable in excess of that caused by either diphtheria, influenza, diabetes and a long list of other diseases. Of the 433 deaths, 389 were recorded as suicides and 44 as murders, according to official statistics from the state health department.

Apparently man's awkward disposition and violent temper are as difficult to control as are his invisible enemies, the disease germs.

Golf and Volstead Act Main Subjects of Democrats' Talk

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 27.—Golf has been the most engrossing topic of discussion at French Lick, Charles F. Murphy, Tammany chieftain has informed Norman E. Mack, democratic national committee man.

Mr. Mack today charged Mr. Murphy as saying: "There has been no talk of presidential possibilities beyond the customary ante-convention gossip that every group of two or three men inevitably indulge in about this stage of the national contest, we have been active for no against any man in any of our random talk."

"As a matter of fact there has not been a single thing so seriously important but what a par hole or a birdie would have completely knocked it out of our heads. I'll make this one exception—there have been serious discussions of the Volstead Act, the increasing disrespect for the law and the utter failure of its enforcement. I have reiterated by conviction that the Volstead law should be changed to permit each state to determine itself the alcoholic content of its beverages."

No. 6—Dancing Exercises

ARTHUR MURRAY'S PARTNER, AILEEN MEEHAN, DEMONSTRATES THE PROPER STEP FOR WOMEN—AS LONG AS POSSIBLE, WITH THE POINTING BACKWARD.

BY ARTHUR MURRAY Director, National Institute of Social Dancing

Before teaching people to do the actual steps in a dance like the fox trot, I first give them a series of exercises. These exercises are the basis for infinite ballroom steps and consist of movements which at first seem entirely foreign to the ballroom dancer. The object of the exercises is to teach the muscles which are used in dancing. After the pupil has brought the required muscles under control, it is a simple matter to learn the details of the dance. In most instances the pupil is capable of following her partner immediately after learning the exercises, which by the way, bear a close relationship to physical culture exercises.

Help Figure, Too

In my experience with teaching social dancing by giving a series of these exercises, I have found that teaching the person to dance, also serve as aids in developing the figure to the ideal form. That these exercises also make one graceful goes without saying.

Let us now consider some of these exercises in relation to those dancing steps for which they constitute the logical preparation, and for which they develop the co-ordination and technique necessary if one would do these dances well.

In following it is essential for the girl to dance so that her feet will always be out of reach of her partner's and at the same time she must dance with ease and without pulling away from him. The secret of knowing how to live through a dance and come out of the struggle with shoes untouched is to know how to walk.

Walking Backward

For the lady there are two ways of dancing backward; the ordinary way is simply to walk backward, but the good dancer does more than that; when she places her foot in back, she does it in such a way that it looks pretty and it will not be stepped upon.

Place the feet in what is called the first position in dancing; the heels together and toes turned out. Move the right foot as far backward as it will go and at the same time stretch the toes well back so that only the front tip of the foot touches the floor. There should be a straight line from the hip to the big toe. Now, bring the foot back to the first position. Repeat the same exercise with the other foot.

Partner a Puzzle

This may be done to one-step music. "I could do the steps if I only knew what my partner would do next. How can I know?" I have been asked this question almost a dozen times and always I think of the time I asked a doctor to cure my cold. He replied that if he knew how he would surely cure his own. So it is with a man's dancing. He himself often does not know what step he will do next, and, of course, the long-suffering partner must follow.

The poor girl who has no choice in the matter can do but one thing; she must train her feet always to be ready for whatever steps the man takes a notion to do.

CIVIL SUITS IN STATE MATTERS TO MASTER, PROBABLY

Court Hears Pleas of Attorneys on Such Proceedure.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—Four "et il suits" calling on Gov. Len Small, Verne Curtis, Lieut. Gov. Fred Stealing, and others to account for $2,000,000 state interest money alleged to have been withheld, were today referred to Master in Chancery Charles G. Briggie by Circuit Judge Frank V. Burton.

Protests from Werner Schroed and Thomas Masters that Briggie, chairman of the Sangamon county Republican central committee, which controlled by the Dick Sullivan or a ti-small faction of the party, brought the statement from Judge Burton that his "confidence in the master in chancery is unshaken."

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—(By Associated Press)—A final order referring the civil suits to a master in chancery was held up this morning when counsel for Governor Small asked that the master be released at that the preliminary hearing on a countableness be heard by Circuit Judge Frank V. Burton himself.

The master in chancery, it was pointed out, is Charles G. Briggie, chairman of the Sangamon County Republican central committee, which controlled by the Dick Sullivan or a ti-small faction of the party. Indications were that the question concerning the powers of the Master in-Chancery, raised at the last meeting during the hearing of the state interest money civil suits, would be a delegation of judicial power to the master in chancery, which was merely advisory. He contended that there is no difference whether the hearing before the master in chancery is preliminary or otherwise. He said that evidence offered—how the state treasurer's account, the disposition of the interest, the character of the so-called Grant Park bank—would require much time and preparation and contended that the cases to a master in referring the cases to a master in chancery, objected to a reference of the cases to a master. Liability of the cases to a master. Liability of the cases to a master. Liability of the cases to a master.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—Four "et il suits" calling on Governor L. Small, Verne Curtis, Lieutenant Governor Sterling and others to account for $2,000,000 state interest money alleged to have been withheld were referred to a Master in Chancery by Circuit Judge Frank V. Burton this morning.

Lawyers representing both sides of the suits appeared in court at 9 o'clock. Werner Schroed and Thomas Masters, representing the Governor and other co-defendants, and Assistant Attorneys General Clarence N. Boothe and Thomas W. Hadley and Campbell filed the prosecution.

In referring the cases to the Master in Chancery Judge Burton advised lawyers that Verne Curtis' plea in the would be taken as an answer to the cases might proceed together. It was indicated that the hearing before the Master in Chancery would be a result in presentation of a great many depositions by the Attorney General.

The judge charged the Master to investigate the cases and report back whether there is a liability to account for the part or the defendants. After deciding this, the Master will report back his finding, and then in the regular course of events, the judge will refer the cases to a Master in chancery to determine the extent and scope of liability.

THINK AND THANK—A THANKSGIVING THOUGHT—

By Rev. Francis C. Young.
(Chicago Post Priest.)

The other day when we felt sad.
We met a laughing little lad
Whose rosy cheeks attention tore
From worldly cares that only bore.

We stopped to ask this playful child
With infant Christlike features mild:
"Who gave to you those cheeks of rose?"

He smiled then said, "Dad gave me dose."

A little child, we're often told,
Shall lead us to the Gates of Gold.

'Tis this that tells the reason why
Our tiny tots the knots untie
Of problems that confound the wise,
Whose sin-stained souls all Truths disguise.

Now tell me, why do you suppose
That child just said, "Dad gave me dose?"

In bed of pain a neighbor lies,
While others, worse, deprived of eyes,
Of hands, of feet, of tongue, of mind

Still smile a smile that says they find
A peaceful joy that comes from God,
To Whose directing with they turn

With thanks for health, our food and clothes,
Let's join this child, "Dad gave me dose."

Interesting Meeting of W. R. C. Held

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the G. A. R., held at G. A. R. hall Monday afternoon was very interesting to the large attendance of members and several Comrades present.

Part of the business routine consisted of balloting on applications for membership and initiation of candidates.

Mrs. Ethel Brookner, President of the Corps, spoke of the Christmas time drawing near, and wishes all members to bring jelly, jam or canned fruit to the next Corps meeting, the same to be sent to the "Old Soldiers" and Widows home. It is hoped all members will respond generously, also if y members have patch work pieces, if a little bundle, to send to the ladies to have to work with.

There is also a call for members for homes, and anyone having material which could be used, report to the Relief Committee, who will more than appreciate this effort.

Mrs. Stanborough, chairman of the Relief Committee, announced that the Woman's Relief Corps, will hold a home baking sale next Saturday at the room on Galena avenue, vacated by the Cledon Candy Shop. All members are urged to donate some article of food for this sale, and have it there as promptly as possible. Saturday morning, if impossible to bring it, notify one of the relief committee, it will be called for. This money is for relief work among needy members, and all must try to do their share in helping the unfortunate ones.

The charter was draped for Mrs. Isaac Cook, a member, whose funeral Sunday, was attended by the Woman's Relief Corps funeral service. After the business session a short program was enjoyed, the same being held in honor of Mrs. Hazel Curran, treasurer, who soon leaves for California, and for Mrs. Julia Myers, one of the W. R. C. loyal veteran members.

Mrs. Lillian Hefley Wolber sang a beautiful song, her sweet voice was more than appreciated and enjoyed by all. She graciously responded to an encore.

William Rhodes, grandson of Mrs. Stauffer, kindly favored the members with a clarinet solo, which was well played and enjoyed by everyone. He also responded to an encore. Delicious refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

Presby. Missionary Society Meeting

The Presbyterian Missionary society was entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Collins Dyar.

Mrs. W. C. Thompson gave the Bible reading and read an article upon Thanksgiving.

Miss McCune read a most interesting paper upon the mountaineers, among whom she has been working as a teacher in the Asheville Boys' farm school. Many personal experiences were related which made this subject one of unusual interest. Pictures of the school and surroundings were shown.

Mrs. Case reported that the boxes of clothing and bedding which this society send each year to mission schools had been well filled and sent.

A short social period closed the afternoon's program.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Clean Upholstery.
Upholstery may be dry-cleaned with a mixture of starch and whiting sifted together and applied thickly over it. Let stand for a day, then brush off. If there are any grimy spaces wet them with alcohol before putting on the powder.

Dusty Furs.
Furs worn in dusty wind or in a smoky atmosphere need to be well combed, brushed against the grain and aired quickly.

WHAT EUROPE NEEDS.

Will Irwin, American journalist and a good one, says what Europe needs most is a few oes of the cold truth.

"I was in Europe last summer and the most larming thing I discovered was the public tate of mind," declared Mr. Irwin. "You now what happened to the minds of the peole during the war, how they became insane.
Vell, this insanity of mind still exists in the eople of Europe. I found the people of ontinental Europe hating more vividly last ummer than they did during the war.

"One reason for that condition of mind, nd it bodes ill for the future, is that during he war the new art of propaganda was recognized and discovered. There isn't a citizen a private life who knows about Germany.
hey are being fed on lies. They believe the ermans have arms for thirty of forty diisions and that they are ready for an imediate uprising.

"The Germans believe that the French are omitting unbelievable atrocities in the hineland. It is not so. We know what it is ere. I haven't time to go into it, but we ave had plenty of propaganda in this coun-ry during the war. Take it from me as a ournalist, I know.

"It is true that Secretary Hughes accepted imitation of his proposal and it does look s if there is not much room for action. How-ver, suppose, for instance, that Secretary lover should be placed on the reparation ommission, and, as a part of the work of the ommission, Mr. Hoover were to draw up a eport. That report would be made public.
hen the public would know whether Germany is on the verge of collapse or not, hether, as has been suggested, she has ight billions of gold marks in South Amerian banks or not. Then we would have got-en one real piece of truth and lies would not revail."

Mr. Irwin's words carry conviction. The ercise of the power of propaganda did not ease with the armistice.—Rockford Regis-tr-Gazette.

"COLDS."

The common "cold" is recognized as a enace, by Uncle Sam's Public Health Service, which starts studying "colds" on a big cale. The goal, of course, is to stamp out ventually these annoying and dangerous pidemics.

It's a relief and pleasure to read about ach common-sense action, after so much medical vaudeville about monkey glands and a on. Situation to date was approximately immer up by the country doctor who atirically said: "It takes three weeks to are a cold with medicine and 21 days with-verage of $1.18 for each vote cast. One

JAIL NEWS.

How would you like to live in a city entirenclosed in glass walls and glass of—like a gigantic florist's greenhouse?
rchitects, engineers and health authorities
e beginning to discuss this subject serious-

Many novel advantages are claimed for the heme.

First of all, the glass-enclosed city would e smokeless, for all chimneys would go up rough the roof. This roof would keep heat side Glasstown, and a summer temperature uld be maintained in the coldest climate.

Naturally, cost of heating homes and so on would be less. It's even claimed that the coal saving would pay interest charges and provide sinking fund for the original cost of putting the city under glass.

On the streets and yards inside the glass-nclosed city, there'd be vegetable life to purify the air. Furthermore, the air would be constantly replenished by mighty ventilating fans and periodically purified by artificial rain from roof "shower baths."

No one as yet has figured out how to dispose of the poison gas from auto exhaust.

An area of half a square mile could be enclosed in glass, for about 17 million dollars for each 100 feet height, according to builders. This is enough space to house 65,000 people in large apartment houses or 15,000 in two and three-story houses.

The glass-enclosed idea is suggested mainly for the shopping sections of cities, though some enthusiasts would extend it into the residential district. Nearly every city has the idea worked out in miniature, in an "arcade."

These plans to remodel the jail undoubtedly would interest the prisoners.

I think you are wrong, little Mar-

they will be one.

Defeated By Grove
High School Bunch

The Intermediate basketball team dropped another hard fought game to the Franklin Grove high school five Friday night by a score of 23-17. The first half of the game was by far the better part and there was seldom more than two points difference in the score during this session. The half ended 14-13 and in the second, field goals by Wetzel gave Franklin a good lead which they kept to the end. Wetzel was the individual star of the game making over half of the Groves' points by dropping field goals from all points of the floor. The Intermediates played a better game against their heavier opponents than they did in the previous game but still need more practice in team play.

Mrs. Isaac Cook is Laid to Final Rest

The funeral of Mrs. Isaac Cook was held at her home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Aubrey Shannon Moore, pastor of the Methodist church officiating, and with burial in Oakwood.

Catherine Shriver Cook was born in Fulton, Stark Co., Ohio on the 9th day of October 1847. She grew to womanhood in her native state. In September of 1867 she came to Illinois where her home was to be permanently established. In December of 1869 she was united in marriage to Isaac Cook and the happy young couple went to housekeeping on a farm near West Brooklyn, Ill., where the home remained for forty-two years. To this happy home four children were born, all of whom grew to maturity and remain to mourn the loss of a devoted Christian mother. In 1911 the family came to Dixon where they were living when Mrs. Cook passed away. In 1919 the Golden Wedding anniversary was celebrated. It was a most delightful occasion indeed.

During the past year it was apparent that Mrs. Cook was not well, but as she was not given to complaining her loved ones scarcely realized that anything serious could be the matter.
She was cheerful and happy until the end. A few weeks ago she called a doctor and everything was done that could be done to restore her to health.
It was evident from the outset that her chance for recovery was slight.
She gradually weakened until on the 23rd of November, 1923 at 3:30 p. m.
she heard the call from the unseen and stepped quietly through the shadow into the home that awaits God's children. Her age was 76 years, 1 month, and 14 days. Mrs. Cook was a child of God. She was converted at an early age and continued a devout member of the Methodist church until death claimed her. She was always active in Sunday School work as a teacher and as a regular attendant.
Her church meant much to her. She loved her Lord and was happy in His service. She will be missed from her accustomed place in the church. She will be missed from her place in the home for her chair will be vacant at the fireside. But Mrs. Cook will be no stranger among the Immortals. She has known and has spoken the language of heaven for years. She will be at home there.

Besides the bereaved husband, Isaac Cook, who is left to mourn her loss, the members of the immediate family are: Harry Cook of Hale, Ia.; Mabel Cook Bushey of Dixon; Ernest Cook of Ashton and Thomas Cook of Polo, and ten grandchildren.

In addition to these a host of people who knew and loved her will feel very keenly the loss which they sustain in the death of this good woman.

"Servant of God, well done!
Rest from the loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy."

Radio Week and the American Home

Where is radio at now? And where does it go from here?

These will be the keynotes of Radio Week, the period embracing between November 25th and December 1st, which has been set aside as a time in which to take note of the status of the wonderful new art and utility which has so profoundly and pleasantly affected the lives of millions of people.

Not that the radio industry itself needs such a special week; it is constantly taking stock of itself and its progress, and through the numerous radio shows and through the inexorable laws and demands of economics which, in the long run, determine the development of radio as they do the development of any other major public utility.

Radio week will be particularly a week for the general public to observe and enjoy a demonstration of the place which radio has come to occupy in everyday life and of the extent to which the art is now capable of expanding and enriching life everywhere.

This special week, originally intended to attract more Americans to the benefits of radio, unexpectedly became international in scope when transatlantic tests of wireless telephony were arranged as a special feature. Millions of people, whether they are already radio fans or whether their attention is attracted to it for the first time by the spectacular demonstration of two-way communication between England and America, will be led to inquire how they may enjoy the fullest measure of entertainment and benefit which this art has made available in the short period since the first crude experiments with wireless began.

Radio Week will strikingly indicate some of the more important fields in which radio operates and appeals—Sunday, November 25, in the field of religious worship, when special religious services were broadcast; Monday, when dramatic and vaudeville stars were in the air; Tuesday, when governmental phases of life, national, state and municipal, had their share in the morning; Wednesday, when the afternoon sports will be in order; Thursday, when the holiday atmosphere of Friday, which will indicate some of the educational possibilities of radio; and Saturday, which will be a "home day" with a demonstration of the ways which up-to-the-minute dance music and other special features bring to homes not only in Radio week, but every week, for those who have grasped the possibilities of radio and have built or bought receiving sets.

Every week will be radio week here and bye.

And life and love won't be far off when the average man and woman or boy and girl realizes that radio has gone far since the day of squeaks and sawdusts and that with good apparatus in their homes the best of music, educational features, dramatic entertainment, sermons and lectures, may be brought to every home—loud, clear and without distortion.

Radio is here to stay, and its supreme place and highest enjoyment is in the home.

Radio week will demonstrate to the American home as never before the benefits and blessings of an art which has annihilated space, and is waiting to bring the best of life to every home in the land.

Funeral Mrs. Thos. Ford Held at Home Monday Afternoon

Marie Philman Brechon was born in Belfort, France, on the 29th day of July, 1863. When she was but nine months of age she was taken to America. They located at first on a farm in Bradford Township, Lee County, Ill., but later moved to a farm in South Dixon where she grew to womanhood. Here on the 13th of November, 1890, she was united in marriage to Thomas Ford. To this happy union five children were born, all of whom grew to maturity and with their father are left to mourn the loss of a kind and thoughtful mother. Two years of her married life were spent on a farm and one year in Los Angeles, Cal. With the exception of these three years the entire married life of 33 years has been spent in Dixon, Ill., where she was living when death's messenger came for her. About a year ago she was taken ill and was ill during the greater part of last winter. Towards spring she seemed to improve in health until July 23, 1923, when she was taken ill on her birthday with what proved to be a weakening complication of diseases. Recently, however, she seemed to improve again but a few days ago she developed pneumonia, which in her weakened condition she could not overcome. In spite of all that loving hands and the physician's skill could do she gradually neared the end of life's journey and on the 24th of November, 1923, at 1:00 p. m., she closed her eyes in death, aged 60 years, 3 months, and 25 days. Mrs. Ford was a home woman, interested primarily in her home and her family. She was a good woman, a devout believer in prayer. She will be greatly missed in her home and among the many friends who knew her and esteemed her most highly. The members of the immediate family, who remain to mourn her loss are the bereaved husband, Thomas Ford; four daughters, Mrs. Jacob Ortiguesen, Dixon; Mrs. M. H. Gator, Rock Island; and Misses Julia and Grace Ford, Dixon; one son, Joseph Ford, Dixon; one grandson, Donald Ortiguesen, Dixon; and two brothers, Gus and Julie Brechon, South Dixon.

Funeral services were held from the late residence, 601 Galena Ave., Monday, Nov. 26, at 2:00 p. m. Rev. Aubrey S. Moore of the Methodist Episcopal church officiating. Interment was in Oakwood cemetery.

BUSINESS SURVEY BY NEW YORK BANK REASSURING NOTE

Better Adjustment of Prices Gives Bankers New Hope.

While conditions in industry and trade remain highly irregular, there is little change in the volume of industrial employment or in wage scales, mostly the average of wholesale prices much altered by the individual fluctuations from week to week, states the current issue of the "Guaranty Survey" published today by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. "The substantial improvement in the economic position of the farmers as a whole, compared with that early this year or last fall, is making itself felt in various directions," the "Survey" continues. These tendencies toward stable conditions and the better adjustment between prices of farm products and of other commodities are reassuring to those who feared that the recession in prices and production earlier in the year marked the beginning of a major depression. Production in many lines has increased, or declined at a less rapid rate, in recent weeks. Altogether, the immediate business outlook is not unpromising, except to those who can only recognize prosperity in rampant expansion. "The favorable features of the situation have been strengthened by the responsiveness of production to the continuing requirements of trade. With the passing of the special features of demand which last spring evoked the extraordinary burst of industrial activity, curtailment of production in many instances was the only alternative to the accumulation of excessive inventories.

"Here and there, commodity markets and wage scales remain conspicuously out of adjustment when measured by the usual standards applicable to these relationships. And in some branches of industry there is capacity for production considerably in excess of present or immediately prospective requirements. Neither condition, however, represents a new experience for the business community, and except through misdirected efforts to apply correctives, such conditions need not result in a general business depression. The underlying conditions are in these main sound, and we may preserve a fair measure of prosperity if governmental bodies place no additional handicaps upon business initiative.

Retail Trade
"The large volume of retail sales which has been consistently recorded in all reporting lines during recent months is a significant indication of the strength of the current demand for consumers' goods. The fact that this high level of consumption has been maintained despite the industrial recession of the summer and fall is taken into account in considering the probable future course of general business.

"In 1920, the only period in which sales have approached the level recorded this year, prices were much higher than they were this year; so that it is probably safe to assume that the physical volume of distribution is considerably greater now than it was then.

"This conclusion is substantiated by the record of railroad freight car loadings, which during the first forty-four weeks of this year reached a total of 18 per cent higher than that of the same period last year, and 10 per cent above the high record established in 1920. In the twenty-four weeks beginning with May 20, the weekly average exceeded 1,025,000. Only four times during this period did the weekly total fall short of a million loadings, and in each of those cases the decline was recorded in a week containing a holiday. Prior to this year, the million car mark was reached only a few times during the fall crop movement.

"Car loadings are particularly valuable as a supplement to the sales figures, in that they represent physical volume of distribution. But they include, of course the movement of both producers' and consumers' goods. Indirectly, however, they give an indication of the inactivity of retail distribution, particularly the loadings of merchandise less than the carload lots, and of 'miscellaneous' freight. During the first nine months of 1923, loadings of these classes of freight exceeded by 16 per cent the loadings during the corresponding months last year, and by 33 per cent the loadings for the corresponding period of 1920.

"The element of year to year growth, apart from cyclical variations must also be considered in interpreting the sales data. The chain stores, for example, have grown steadily and rapidly over a period of years. Therefore, the large increase in the sales of these stores should not be taken to indicate that retail sales in general have increased by an equal ratio. Since it appears that the volume of business does this year by department and chain stores, and probably by all retail stores, compares favorably with that of any period in the past and indicates a highly favorable situation with respect to the final distribution of consumers' goods. Mail order sales are usually regarded as a barometer of purchases by farmers, but how accurately they reflect total farmer buying has not been determined.

High Level of Purchasing Power
"Reasons for the favorable record of retail trade are apparent. Employment has been at a high level for many months, and although the fear of labor shortage which was noticed in the spring is no longer present, the pronounced recession in certain branches of manufacturing activity during the last few months have brought about a surprisingly small decline in the number of workers employed.

"The situation with regard to wages has been similar. The price declines and reductions in manufacturing output which began last spring, have not resulted in a much greater drop in wage levels than has actually been taken. It is regarded as a notable fact in recent years that downward wage readjustments have been considerably retarded while upward movements have not shown the lag behind wholesale price increases which was formerly characteristic features of the upward swing of the business cycle.

Relation of Future Trend of Production
"The significance of the current record of retail trade as an indication of the future trend of general business is not entirely clear. There is no clearly defined normal for either production or distribution of commodities. Nor do we know precisely how close is the correspondence between present rates of production and of distribution.

"It appears that stocks of finished goods held either by producers or distributors are generally smaller than formerly. Accordingly, continued retail distribution at the present rate would seem to call for producing activity on an undiminished scale. Insofar, however, as higher costs of production and retrenching in other lines result in curtailment of operation, with consequent unemployment and loss of buying power, retail trade will be affected. And pronounced slackening in retail buying could not fail to react in turn upon production schedules. But until such warnings are given, there is nothing in the present domestic business situation which likely to induce any marked curtailment of production in general.

PROGRESSIVES MAKE PLANS TO GET RECOGNITION

Legislative Program is Being Outlined at Their Meetings.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Nov. 27.—Views of progressives both as to organization and legislation in the 68th congress gradually are being crystallized.

House members of the republican progressive group are in the midst of conferences to determine their program. Republican progressives in the senate are holding informal meetings for general exchanges of ideas out of which they hope will come concrete plans, particularly with reference to farm, railroad and other legislation.

Organization and tax reduction continue to be the central themes of discussion with republican leaders seeking to compose the differences within their party in advance of organization conferences Saturday. They are seeking to avoid especially any delay in the organization of congress and are understood to be prepared to make concessions in the interest of party harmony.

Differences between the progressives and republicans in the senate over organization center on the presidency of the senate. The progressives desire that Senator Cummins of Iowa retain the office of president pro tem and relinquish his place as chairman of the interstate commerce committee, so that Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, a leader of their group may be placed directly in line for the chairmanship.

On the other hand republican leaders are urging on Senator Cummins, that he give up the place as president pro tem and retain his committee post.

FAKE PROMOTERS' LIFE WAS PATH OF ROSES FOR A TIME

As Long as Victims Sent in Their Money It Was "Soft."

By Associated Press Leased Wire

This is brought about by a promoter who has a 50-50 drilling contract on land on which a well is being sunk.

Under terms of the lease, the promoter owns half the well and the driller owns the other half. Many times each has tried to promote a separate company on the same well.

If the promoter sells $1,000,000 worth of stock and the driller does likewise, should oil be discovered the stockholders would have a slim chance realizing any sort of dividends, because both driller and operator have declarations of trust which probably give each the first 10,000 barrels of oil produced. Then after that they split 50-50 drilling contract. And after that—well, after the stockholders come in, providing the well doesn't go dry.

METHODS USED
TWO COMPANIES, ONE WELL

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

Fort Worth, Texas—Issuance of fraud suits, following federal investigation of fake oil schemes, was wholesale.

It did many things to the promoters. But first of all it routed them from their skyscraper offices like rats swarming from their holes.

Hundreds of them fled the city and state. Hundreds, who had been operating and had "gotten their piles" prior to merging with larger syndicates, also disappeared.

They Lived High
The life of an oriental potentate was as nothing compared to the ostentatious existence led by the promoting hordes.

One dealer of high-priced autos says he "cleaned up several fortunes" supplying gaudy cars done by their special orders and run by liveried chauffeurs in uniforms to match the color of the motors.

Boots, bootleggers, waiters, vendors of other things making for luxury, all recite the story of a bubble burst and gratuities once dispersed with lavish hand, coming their way no more.

During the oil boom, it was worth a sizable income to be a bell-boy in one of Fort Worth's smart hostesses.

Five-dollar bills were not unusual payments for carrying up luggage and for waiting on tables.

Incidents such as followed the days of '49, the Klondike rush and the discovery of diamonds in Kimberly, pale into comparative insignificance by contrast.

"Banana" Song Muse
A story is told of one promoter who wrote his own ads. When a new batch of literature was needed he selected himself in a hotel room and started a "banana" song.

Equipped with a play-over device, the machine would grind out "Banana songs" without a stop, during which serenades, the promoter would write means of high pressure copy under the music's stimulus.

With prodigious hand, it was a case of "come easy, go easy," so far as the promoter and his money were concerned.

At the outset he kept away from actual misstatements of fact, because such guileless lies are often open to prosecution as evidence of intent to defraud.

Promises Grew Loud
Later on, however, because nothing officially was done to curb him, the promoter grew careless from long immunity and started faking openly.

He no longer, in scores of cases on file, even went to the pretense of drilling well for the purpose of "covering up" as a means of demonstrating his "honest intentions in producing oil."

GOVT. CONTROL OF HARD COAL PINCHOT'S PLEA

Submits Proposal to Conference of Governors Today.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 27.—Governor Pinchot today made plans to reconvene next month, the conference of representatives of anthracite consuming states which adjourned last night without action on plans submitted for regulation of the hard coal industry. Proposals considered differed widely in methods suggested for attaining the purposes for which the conference was called lower prices for hard coal and the three governors present, Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Silver of New Jersey, and Fries of Minnesota, failed to agree on any one. Others present, delegates representing the governors of nine hard coal consuming states were divided in their opinions.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 27.—Government control of the anthracite coal industry by state and federal action and by a compact between anthracite consuming states establishing a commission to enforce regulations to be agreed on by the governors, was proposed by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania in an address prepared for delivery today at a conference he called of representatives of governors of the anthracite consuming states. In his address, he set forth, these suggestions:

That the state executives use such powers as they now have to assure clean coal by publicity as to fraudulent practices; that they ascertain and make public extortions being practiced and by whom; that they disseminate information as to fuel economy and substitutes; and that they act jointly in appealing to the interstate commerce commission for consideration of anthracite freight rates.

That the federal government establish and enforce in interstate commerce standards for clean coal and for sizes, that it license all those engaged in the interstate anthracite trade, that it authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to deny cars to profiteers and that it investigate and publish the facts.

That the states under a provision of the federal constitution agree on the form of regulation that will best work to the advantage of their people, and negotiate a treaty or compact to establish a joint commission to enforce it.

"Yes, we have no whiskers," ought to be the latest popular song in New York.

Even the down-and-outers are clipping their beards. Unlike former days, when many a patriarch with a long white beard was to be found, department stores have to rely on artificial make-up for their Christmas store Santas.

A thorough search of the various stores in New York who feature Santa Claus for the children, reveals the fact that artificial hirsute adornments are the only ones to be found.

Not a single Santa grows his own. The last objects to catch the eye of the travelers as he rushes through the station of the train carrying him back to the hinterland is a series of terminal shops catering to rush orders.

There are dainties for the almost forgotten women folks, toys for the kiddies, pipes, tobacco and ties for the men, books, perfume, candy and what-not.

The appeal is arresting. It is difficult to fleet past these shops without halting to make a purchase.

Yesterday while awaiting the arrival of a friend a hard-hearted New Yorker bought a cap, two shirts, a pair of gloves and some handkerchiefs—none of which he needed.

The "workings" man in New York has been finally located. He quit his job because there was not enough work to keep him steaming busy throughout his workable hours.

He was a dusky cook—and a good one—in a neighborhood chop house in which we often lunch. His pumpkin pies melted in your mouth.

One day substitute pie was served. Questions were asked.

"The cook left because there was not enough work to keep him busy," was the answer.

But the extent of her fortune was unknown until it came out in a court action last week. The 6-week lodgings had made her a millionaire!

When it comes to speeding, the New York traffic courts don't take the list of even the fastest of its offenders.

YALE CARRIED OFF BIG HONORS OF EASTERN TEAMS

New York, Nov. 27.—(By The Associated Press)—The year 1923 in intercollegiate athletics will go down in history with the Blue of Yale as its predominant color.

From the indoor season on through the spring program and winding up this month, the Elis have amassed an unassailable triumph record. Besides sweeping to "Big Three" heights, in eight fields of competition, Yale carried off eastern intercollegiate honors in six branches of sport.

Intercollegiate championships of general recognition as title holding honors have been gained by Yale in swimming, polo, basketball, rowing and football, while the Blue also triumphed in Dexter Cummings, intercollegiate golf champion. "Big Three" honors went to the Blue in basketball, swimming, polo, rowing, track and field, baseball, cross country and football.

Nation-wide Spurious Money Gang Found

By Associated Press Leased Wire
St. Paul, Nov. 27.—Information that three alleged counterfeiters, now under arrest, are connected with a nation-wide spurious money gang is believed to have been unearthed by secret service agents here, they said today.

Investigation is being made to connect the trio with a counterfeiters band operating among rum runners, off Highlands, New Jersey, which has grown, the agents say, into an immense national organization. Those under arrest are Joseph Brown, held at Minneapolis; Mrs. Alice Sweeney of Minneapolis, held in St. Louis, and her husband, Homer Sweeney, alleged whiskey runner.

The population of the earth, at its present rate of gain, will be about 4,000,000,000 in 1944.

Basket Ball Takes Place on Calendar

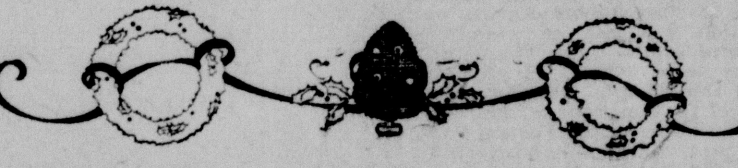

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 27.—Developments on Western Conference basketball floors have the attention of Big Ten sport followers. In most of the conference schools, basket tossers have been training for weeks. Now their numbers are to be augmented by many football stars as practice gets underway in earnest for the first game during the Christmas holidays.

Early reports tend to show there will be a number of strong teams, with Wisconsin, Iowa, and Chicago having particularly advantageous conditions. The Badgers and Hawkeyes tied for first place last year.

Joseph Glavin, Ned Fane and Mrs. Thomas Mosher left Tuesday evening for Chicago, to attend the funeral of Patrick Haley held yesterday.

Ford Trucks are Bought On Performance Records

If you were to ask a hundred—or a thousand—Ford truck owners why they use Ford trucks in preference to all others, they would likely say, "Because the Ford stands up."

They know that under the endless grind of daily service the Ford stays practically no expense for repairs or replacements. They buy to get performance.

A few might add that the Ford is the lowest priced truck on the market. But they would emphasize the work this truck does, not its initial cost, in accounting for the fact that there are more Ford Trucks in use today than all other makes combined.

LEE CO. FARM BUREAU NOTES

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU MEETING DECEMBER 10-12

The fifth annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago December 10, 11 and 12, will see legislation, marketing, transportation, taxation, community development, and program building as the outstanding topics of discussion, according to Farm Adviser, Griffith.

The Lee County Farm Bureau has 545 members in the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Several nationally known speakers will appear upon the program. On the first day, Herbert Hoover will speak on commerce in its relation to agriculture; Gray Silver, Washington representative of the farm bureau, will discuss legislation; and H. H. Hubbard, Professor of Agricultural Economics at the University of Wisconsin, will talk on that subject.

On the second day Mrs. H. W. Lawrence of Texas will lead the discussion on home and community development; Aaron Sapir, cooperative marketing counsel, will discuss marketing; James R. Howard, former president of the A. F. B. F., will talk on the farmers' transportation problem; and John C. Watson of the Illinois Agricultural Association will talk on a uniform taxation program.

On the third day, E. H. Cunningham of the Federal Reserve Board, will tell of the functions of that body, and W. L. Corbin of the Federal Farm Loan Board, will tell how organized farmers can use intermediate credit.

CONSIGN MUCH WOOL

Illinois farmers consigned approximately 165,000 pounds of wool to the wool pool this year.

SUBJECTS FOR I. A. A. MEET

Farm taxes, cooperative marketing, and transportation will be the chief subjects of discussion at the ninth annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association at Galesburg, January 16 and 17, 1924, according to information received by the Lee County Farm Bureau.

Expert authorities will speak on these subjects. Richard T. Ely, Professor of Economics at the University of Wisconsin, has already secured to speak on taxation. He is considered a national authority on the subject.

James C. Stone, President and General Manager of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association of Kentucky, will speak on cooperative marketing. Mr. Stone is quite well known in Illinois for his talks at the Central and Springfield district conferences in October.

Reservations for the annual meeting should be made by writing to Reservation Committee, Knox County Farm Bureau, Galesburg, Illinois, as soon as possible, stating what nights the reservations are desired. Conference headquarters will be at the Custer Hotel, Galesburg.

WILL RECOMMEND I. A. A. ACTION ON T. B. VIOLATIONS

President S. H. Thompson of the Illinois Agricultural Association has appointed a committee of five to study the problems of enforcing laws and regulations pertaining to the transportation of tuberculosis cattle into Illinois, according to word received by the Lee County Farm Bureau.

This committee, consisting of Henry McCough, chairman, Kane County; Geo. Hunt, McHenry County; Harry Wood, Tazewell County; Carlton Trimble, Crawford County; and C. E. Bamforth, Ogle County, will recommend a program of action for the I. A. A. to pursue toward violations, when the Executive Committee meets December 5th.

PRODUCERS AGES- CRIES PROSPERING

During the week of November 19th to 25th inclusive, seven of the thirteen live stock selling agencies operating under the plan of the National Live Stock Producers' Association stood first in receipts on their markets.

The following agencies stood first, the percentage of total business handled being named: Chicago, 6.3 per cent; Buffalo, 20.15 per cent; Cleveland, 27.7 per cent; Indianapolis, 26.2 per cent; Pittsburg, 15.9 per cent; Sioux City, 10 per cent; and Peoria, 41 fars or about one-third of the business.

Other leading agencies in receipts were, Evansville, third with 22 per cent; St. Louis, second with 15 per cent; and Oklahoma City, sixth with 5.3 per cent.

Approximately 100,000 farmers are shipping live stock to one or more of the Producers' agencies. There is every indication that the Producers will handle live stock to the value of $100,000,000 this year, according to Manager F. M. Simpson.

Do these facts not show that the farmers' own cooperative commission agencies are getting the prices for their members? Otherwise, why the large volume? And don't forget the refund that the producers' companies pay.

CO-OPS ARE FORGING AHEAD

The volume of business handled through cooperative marketing now exceeds one and one-half billion dollars annually. Cooperative marketing has grown 50 per cent in volume of business since 1919.

The Burley Tobacco Growers' Association controlled the largest percentage of any one commodity, with practically 85 percent of the burley grown in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee and West Virginia, under contract.

There are 5,000 cooperative elevators in America with approximately 500,000 members.

HAVE YOU EVER NOTICED

That the man who says, "Farmers won't stick," is the first one to drop out of the farm bureau?

Football's BIGGEST THRILLS

BY W. S. CANNELL, Eastern Football Expert

The greatest individual play I have ever seen, my biggest thrill, occurred in the Dartmouth-Brown game of 1919 at Fenway Park in Boston.

Dartmouth was favored to win because of a much better preliminary season's record. Dartmouth scored in the second period but as the touchdown was made in the extreme corner of the end zone it was necessary to punt out. The kick was poor and the attempt failed.

The score remained 6 to 0 in favor of Dartmouth with only a few minutes to play. Dartmouth at this stage attempted a punt on her own 40-yard line. Johnson, Brown guard, broke through and blocked the kick. The ball traveled about two yards in the air after leaving the kicker's foot.

Johnson received the ball with the full force of Jim Robertson's kick behind it, yet managed to hold the ball and ran 35 yards for a touchdown.

The remarkable thing, of course, was that Johnson should have been able to hold the ball. The ball was kicked by one of the best punters ever developed in the east, while Johnson, in order to block the punt, had to break through "Svede" Youngstrom, who made the All-America for his ability to break through and block kicks.

In all my football experience as a player and official I have never seen a man before or since block a punt and then hold the ball as it is kicked against his body and hands. The ball is invariably fumbled, the player being content to block the kick and then seek to regain possession of the ball.

"DOG EAT DOG" IS TRADITIONAL MAXIM PIRATE PROMOTER

Fake Oil Sellers' Victims Reveal Pitiful Experiences.

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer
Ft. Worth, Tex. Dog eat dog! That was the traditional maxim, policy and by-word in the game of the pirate promoter.

From start to finish the investor of small savings never had a chance for his money.

The fake oil stock promoter was out to cheat on a gigantic scale. In a measure his conduct was tolerated—perhaps helplessly—by a law which could not reach him, since he "technically" evaded it.

When fake promoters were not flooding the country with propaganda in search of fresh suckers, they were at each other's throats.

Seek More Victims
Living off the fat of the land, they filled skyscrapers with their offices and hundreds of employees.

For a new list of "suckers" in possession of some other pirate, a promoter would go the limit in payment.

Janitors in promoter tenanted buildings were continually bribed to retrieve waste-basket gleanings and bring discarded envelopes containing return addresses—sucker addresses—prices ranging from 10 cents to $5 an envelope.

One promoter in the course of little more than 16 months, paid a known $55,480.76 for such lists.

What the promoter did not fleece the public out of, his crooked broker accomplished.

Scores of cases are incorporated in the government's evidence, where crooked brokers "sold short" to the tune of hundreds of thousands of dollars on their promoter clients.

It was worked this way:
Most oil stock was purchased on time. At $100 a share, if the investor had paid $50 and a notice was sent him that the company with whom he had placed his money had struck dry wells, he laughed up his sleeve, thinking he had gotten the better of the promoter.

Broker Gets His
In reality it was the broker who snickered. He had sold the stock. And since the company was out of existence, the broker proceeded to pocket the entire $50. This operation gives some idea of the double-crossing methods worked within the ring.

It is also another reason why federal officials are having difficulty checking the total losses, since in the case of a "short stock selling deal" no actual exchange or record of sale of the stock ever makes.

Every train, from all points of the compass, brings witnesses into Ft. Worth. And the hotels, once filled with swank oil promoters, now shelter countless evidences of disillusioned humanity, folks who trusted and lost.

Recalls all the instances of broken faith and slender savings of lifetimes of labor wiped away in a single moment would fill volumes.

But I do particularly remember the tragic story of Mrs. Mary A. Phillips, 56, widow of a Civil War veteran, living at Conception, O.

Her face, wrinkled and seamed with rheumatic step, on the witness stand Mrs. Phillips told how she had torn up the carpets of her home to obtain money to buy oil stock.

She typifies the sorrow and misery which "trailed" millions of the great American oil stock buyers, who fell for promises contained in the unceasing barrage of promotional oil literature which flooded the country.

Then too, there is the case of Guthrie P. Hastings, a local cobbler of Boston, who had settled down in his 56 years of back-breaking effort, to a life of expected mediocre comfort.

Hastings was on the train with me coming into Ft. Worth, to testify as a witness as to the manner in which he had been duped of his savings and placed in jeopardy of the poor farm.

Cobbler Is Duped
"They promised so much. And I trusted them," the old man cried. "But now everything owned is gone. I will be glad to die."

For stakes like this promoters fought with each other. Sued each other for such misery.

They promised rivers of oil. But they gave rivers of tears and tears of oil.

A mountain of evidence substantiates all of this. A hundred in dictments already returned confirm it. And 1000 more yet to be voted upon place it beyond the question of a doubt.

(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

The amazing story of "Hog Creek" Carruth's operations is told in Gibbons' next article.

Cher Up!
Why double other people's woes by looking grim and gray?
Let's whistle up a hope or two to chase the fears away!

Say—what's the use of envying the feasts we haven't got?
Let's count the currants in our buns—twirl cheer us up a lot.

We won't talk glibly, dimly, of trouble, grief and loss—
We'll chat of blessings, thankfully, and hide each petty cross.

For don't we know—of course we do—
Life must have tracks of care?
But still it has some sunny smiles—
Thank God that they are there!

POSSIBLE New TERRITORY

Washington, D. C.—The possibility of the United States having a new territory presents itself by the announcement that the proposal to separate the first judicial district from the rest of Alaska received a majority vote in the November territorial elections.

"Alaska, in the minds of most citizens of the United States, is a country of mountains, mines and snow, similar throughout. However, that section which recently has voted to become a separate territory is separated from the rest of Alaska by a wall of ice no living man has crossed," explains a bulletin from the National Geographical Society.

"How would the map of Alaska be changed by the formation of a new territory?"

Alaska's "Land Trail"
"Alaska presents a great square block, wedged cornerwise between North America and Siberia, obstructing an open channel of the Pacific Ocean to the North Pole. On the southernmost corner of the square block is a tail of land extending down the coast in the direction of Seattle. It runs southward for 600 miles from the longitude boundary between Alaska proper and Canada. This section reaches back from the coast to the watershed of the Canadian Rockies, a distance varying from 50 to 150 miles. It is known as the first judicial district, or the Juneau district.

"Of the four judicial districts of Alaska the first has the largest population of white men and in most respects outranks the others, although the southern reaches of the peninsula, looms larger in many important commercial factors. Of four Alaskan cities which had a population of more than 1000 in 1920, Juneau, Ketchikan, and Sitka, the former capital of Alaska, are located in the first division while Fairbanks, which has a population only one-fifth as great as the combined populations of Juneau and Ketchikan, is located on the Tanana river, in the fourth judicial district.

Ice Separates Districts
"The wall of ice which separates lower Alaska from upper Alaska is made up of hundreds of glaciers moving down the steep sides of the Rocky Mountains which tower above the inland passage. This passage is an arm of the sea, forming a breakwater between the ocean and the mainland. So ruggedly mountainous and wild is this section of the coast, particularly between Skagway and the Copper River section in the third judicial district that no explorer has traveled by land, entirely over American territory from Juneau or Skagway to the other district.

"Wire communication between the two parts of Alaska is maintained by submarine cable and by a telegraph line through Canada down the Yukon valley, but physical communication is either by boat across the Gulf of Alaska or through the Skagway gate to the Yukon and thence to central Alaska. Even this shortest journey from Juneau to Seward takes all of two days, a longer trip than from New York to Kansas City.

Population distribution bears upon the recommendation of the Alaska citizens of the first judicial district. The whole territory has now a population of 60,000, half of which are natives. Lower Alaska claims 17,000 of this, but it has 12,000 whites and 5000 natives. Juneau in lower Alaska is the present capital of the territory and the residence of the governor.

"The conception that Alaska is a country of mountains is an erroneous as the conception that it is as cold as Greenland. At Juneau the temperature seldom goes below zero and this moderate climate is found in practically all southern Alaska, swept by warm winds from the Pacific ocean which bring heavy precipitation to this coast.

Heat Prostrations
"At Fairbanks, which is in the same latitude as Iceland, three men were prostrated by the heat last summer. Fairbanks is the center of a great section which would surprise the industrialist who expected only mountains in Alaska. Away from the south coast, the country back of the barrier of mountain ranges stretches broadly as a great inland plateau, rolling gently north to the reaches of the Behring Sea. Tanana and Fairbanks are centers of a growing agricultural region, which is having considerable success in producing quick-growing crops.

The big inland plain is inhabited chiefly by huge herds of reindeer guarded by native owners.

"Most of the minerals for which Alaska is noted—gold, silver, and copper—are found in both upper and lower Alaska. The Juneau district produces three times as much gold as the rest of Alaska and it has some of the great copper mines of the country. A further contrast between the two sections is found in shipping statistics: while 1518 ships cleared at the fishing port of Ketchikan, only 308 clearings were reported for all other Alaskan ports in 1922.

"Lower Alaska has been the objective of most of the tourists who visit the American 'Switzerland.' The magnificent scenery of the inland passage panned much interest but with the completion of the great Tanana River bridge on the Seward-Fairbanks railroad this past year, many visitors are pushing on across the Gulf of Alaska to see the beauties and wonders of the interior as did the late President Harding and his party."

Stay Away From Here
Lahore, Afghanistan—Some Americans think their prohibition laws are about the toughest thing in the world. But they would change their minds if forced to observe Afghanistan's. A soldier, who had slipped a bit too much here recently, was fined $145, lashed 80 times and paraded through the streets as an example to others who might fall by the wayside, as he did.

STORY AND GROWTH OF CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

Sixteen years ago through the influence of an article by Jacob Rits in the Outlook Magazine telling of Christmas stamps sold in Denmark for the support of a children's hospital, Miss Emily P. Russell of Wilmington, Delaware, sold seals for the first time in this country and raised $1,000 to pay on the site of the first tuberculosis sanatorium in Delaware (Hope Farm). The penny stickers that could be bought by rich and poor, children and grown-ups, became popular at once. From the first it was realized that the organized movement to combat tuberculosis could have widespread educational value. From 1908 until 1919 the Christmas seal sale was sponsored by the American Red Cross. The 1919 seal was the first to carry that double-barred cross, the specific symbol of the fight against tuberculosis and the official emblem of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1,200 state and local agencies. Three hundred thousand seals were sold in 1917. Over 844 million seals were sold in 1922. Approximately 2 billion have been sold and 8 billion distributed since the first Christmas seal sale. Over one billion seals are in circulation this year.

KILLED ON CROSSING

Moline, Ill., Nov. 26.—Erwin McCammon, 21, of Streator, Ill., was instantly killed at Sheffield, forty miles east of here, at 4:35 this morning, when his automobile was struck by a fast Rock Island passenger train. His brother, who was driving another automobile, narrowly escaped the same fate. The McCammons were driving from Streator to St. Paul, Minn. The main crossing on the state highway was blocked by a freight train and the McCammons drove to a semi-private crossing where the accident occurred. Parents of the young men reside at Indianapolis, Ind.

A MATING IN THE WILDS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane, discharged convict, gave the life of Helen Yardeley as her canoe travels toward a dangerous waterfall. Helen is the niece of a governor of the Hudson Bay Company. They are visiting at a northern post of the company. While walking the trail to return Helen to her uncle's camp Stane is severely injured in a fall. Helen decides to remain and care for him.

Gerald Ainley, one-time friend of Stane, is in love with Helen. He goes in search of the missing girl and meets a half-breed who says he has seen Helen and Stane together.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

A Forest Fire

SIR JAMES YARDELEY sat in the shelter of his tent looking anxiously at Gerald Ainley. "Then you have not found my niece, Ainley?"

"No, Sir James! But I have news of her, and I am assured she is alive."

Ainley thereupon described the search he had made, and produced the swastika brooch, explaining the circumstances under which he had found it, and then gave an account of the meeting with the half-breed and of the latter's declaration that he had seen Helen going up the main river in a canoe with a white man.

Sir James stared through the tent-door at the wild landscape before him. His face showed a lightening of his anxiety, though it was clear that the turn of events puzzled him.

"This unfortunate affair has upset me. It has quite disarranged my plans. We have lost five days here, and I shall be compelled to curtail my journey. I have decided to cut out the visits to the posts north of this, and to work across to the Peace River, and so southward."

"You are going back?" cried Ainley in some consternation. "You are going to leave Miss Yardeley?"

"No, my dear fellow," interrupted Sir James, anticipating the conclusion of his subordinate's sentence. "I am not going to leave her to her fate. I have thought the matter over carefully. I shall leave four Indians with you, and shall establish a camp at this point, so that in the event of Helen returning here you will not miss her by any chance. I shall send a messenger to Rodwell, at Fort Malsum, instructing him to send you down an outfit that will last the winter if necessary, and you will have carte blanche to follow your own plans."

"Sir James, I shall spare no effort to that end, and I may say that, if possible, I am even more anxious about her than you."

A half-smile came on the great man's face, as he nodded. "I understand, Ainley; I am not blind. It was for that reason I decided that you should have charge of the search-party, seeing that you have extra inducements. Find my niece, bring her back to me, and then we can talk over the matter."

At the very time when Ainley was congratulating himself on the opportunity opening out before him, Helen Yardeley was seated on a log by the side of the man whom he hated. There was a high color in her face and she was laughing a little nervously as she looked at the astonished face of the sick man who had been her rescuer and was now her patient.

"Miss Yardeley," cried Stane, "do you really mean what you say?"

"Of course I do," replied the girl lightly.

"And Gerald Ainley with another man camped within two miles of here two nights ago?"

She awoke early to find a wind humming in the tree-tops and immediately there impinged upon her nostrils the odor of burning wood.

Up the lake-side the shore was hidden under rolling clouds of smoke, the dark green of the woods was shrouded by the same bluish veil, and the air seemed full of distant crackling. Out of the veil of smoke as she watched broke a long leaping tongue of yellow flame, and the air blowing towards her seemed hot as a furnace. Her face paled before the terror in front. Her first thought was for the sick man who was in her care. The camp was directly in the line of fire, and if the wind kept up, must inevitably burn. She would have to get him away. But how?

Stane was awake, lifted up on one elbow, an anxious look upon his face. As his eyes saw her pallor, he knew that a fear which in the last few moments had come to him was not groundless.

"Ah!" he cried, "the timber is on fire! I thought I could smell it."

"Yes," she answered, "and the wind is driving the fire this way."

"You will have to go, Miss Yardeley," he answered quickly. "The fire travels quickly in such timber as this. You must not mind me—"

"You want me to run away and leave you to die," cried the girl. "I would sooner die myself I could never respect myself again. There must be some way out of this difficulty, only I don't know it. But you are used to the ways of this wilderness. You must tell me what to do, and quickly, and I will do it. Oh—if we only had a canoe!"

"We haven't," he answered thoughtfully. "But the next best thing, we could make, and—"

"What is that?"

"A raft!"

"A raft?" she echoed, hope lighting her face.

"Yes. If by any means you could get me down to the lake-side, I could instruct you in the construction. But how you are going to do that—"

"I shall carry you," interrupted the girl. "It will be very painful for you, but there is no other way."

"But how—?"

"On my back! I am strong, thank Heaven! And as we have no time to waste I will make arrangements at once. I'll take our things down to the shore, and then come back for you."

CHAPTER XII

The Raft

NEVER in her life had Helen Yardeley worked so hard as she had worked in the next two hours. She made two journeys to the lake with her possessions, and on the way back the second time she arranged several resting places in preparation for the hardest task of all—the carrying of her injured companion down to the shore.

She did what she could with an improvised sling, and helped him to stand on his uninjured leg. She was afraid that he was about to faint, but he recovered himself and three-quarters of a minute later, she was carrying him pick-a-back to the lake-side.

Twice she heard a groan torn from him, but she set her teeth, and pointed on to the first resting place, where, as gently as she could, she set him on the trunk of a fallen tree which, supported by its under branches, lay waist high. Instantly she felt for his service water-bottle which she had previously filled with brandy and water, and pouring out some of the liquid she held it towards him.

"Drink," she said, "all of it."

He did so, and when they had rested five minutes, they started again, and after halting twice more, reached the shore, where she set him down on a convenient rock, below which she had piled blankets to support his injured leg. It was a little time before either of them could speak, and it was the man who did so first.

"Miss Yardeley, take a little brandy. I implore you!"

Helen looked up, nodded without speaking, and with shaking hands poured out a little of the spirit for herself. After a time her breath came back, and she rose to her feet. (Continued in Our Next Issue)

ARTILLERY OF U. S. ARMY IS UNSATISFACTORY

Chief of Branch of Service Painted Gloomy Picture.

Washington, Nov. 26.—A gloomy picture of the situation in the Army Field Artillery forces was presented in the annual report of Major General William J. Snow, chief of that branch of the Army service made public today by the War Department.

After reviewing the "unsatisfactory" conditions due to the "single" promotion list, shortage in both officer and enlisted personnel, and shortage of draft animals which threatens to immobilize the entire horse drawn field artillery "unless funds are obtained from Congress during the next session," General Snow asserted emphatically that remedies are essential if the Field Artillery is to attain the desired standard of efficiency.

During the past year, the report said, individual mounts have been reduced 20 per cent to reductions in animals strength, and caissons, rolling kitchens and other rolling equipment which normally form a part of field artillery batteries "have been left at posts in storage due to the fact that necessary animals required for drawing this equipment were not available."

"At the present time," General Snow continued, "caissons which normally require six horses are being drawn by four horses and the animal strength of Field Artillery units at the present time is only approximately 71 per cent of the minimum number required under Peace Strength Tables of organization. Unless funds are obtained from Congress during the next session, for animal replacements

The Field Artillery will be forced, by reason of lack of animals due to normal casualties which are bound to occur, to further reduce the number of animals by an amount equivalent to the dismounting of two regiments of divisional artillery. While this reduction will not be concentrated the entire horse drawn Field Artillery will be almost immobilized.

Referring to personnel troubles and its effect upon the Field Artillery, the report said, that after three years' trial under the Reorganization Act of 1920, "It is debatable whether the army as a whole has benefited. The regular organizations are doing better than could reasonably be expected under the present trying conditions. The morale of both officers and men is high. Such handicaps as both work under, are beyond their control, and hence I have pointed them out in this report, in order that higher authority may correct or alleviate them."

"No one thing during the past year," said the report, "has more seriously affected the efficiency of the Field Artillery of the regular army than the shortage of enlisted personnel. To be prepared to meet the demands of a major emergency it is required that each active associate designate and train certain of its personnel in peace to form the nucleus of the inactive associates when organized. Regardless of the merits of this plan, and there is no doubt but that it has great merit, it is impracticable of efficient execution in view of the present existing shortage of personnel."

General Snow added that the morale of both officers and men on duty with the Field Artillery is high, despite prevailing conditions which he explains are not to be accepted as being "wholly bad." He sums up in this way:

"While I have painted a rather gloomy picture of the personnel situation in the Field Artillery, I do not want to leave the impression that conditions are wholly bad. On the contrary, the officers, as a whole, are excellent, their spirit is fine, they are deeply interested in their profession, and they are working hard. FAKE OIL SCHEMERS USUALLY TRIMMED DUPE REPEATEDLY

Gibbons Continues Expose of Swindlers in Oil Stocks.

METHODS USED INFORMATION OIL BUREAU

These institutions are run in the oil-bearing territories by promoters who play a black-mailing game. They get profits from both ends. It works like this:

A promoter whose name is X, let us say, is an information bureau operator. He advertises that such is his business and that purchasers of oil stock may receive trustworthy information by writing him and upon payment of his fee of $1 or more.

When a letter comes inquiring about a certain company, unless that company will agree to pay the information bureau operator a handsome profit, he says some nasty things about them in his answer.

But if the company pays, or else is a regular patron of the bureau, a stereotyped reply is sent back to the investor, and of course he is told everything is lovely.

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

FT. Worth Texas—You crooked oil promoter is pre-eminent a keen psychologist.

The Niagara of nickels which poured in on him was the result of his thorough understanding of human nature.

Running a battery of presses and stock certificate printing machines, he was able to strike incessantly at likely prospects and catch them at an unguarded moment.

A prospect might withstand the tempting bait held out to him for an entire year, but sooner or later he would succumb, so the records show, and like the rest, he was dubbed a "sucker" who sent good money rolling in on top of bad, in response to the magic cry of:

Guaranteed Gushers!
Five hundred per cent dividends.
Pots of gold!

The crooked promoter would conjure with anything as an advertising medium.

Famously names, graveyards, divining rods, "straight-from-the-shoulder talks"—anything and everything he used as bait for gullible victims.

Take the case of "Hog Creek" J. W. Carruth, now serving a one-year sentence at Leavenworth penitentiary. Carruth started out in life as a barber.

FT. Worth made his acquaintance at the start of the oil boom. He so "sold" the town on his plans to form an oil company, that he was permitted to use a civic auditorium.

There he gave rosy promises to an enraptured local audience.

All told, Carruth garnered something like $600,000 in two ventures and sent two wells—both of them coming dry.

Got $600,000

If this man had actually had the interests of his stockholders at heart he could have divided among them the balance on hand when the two oil drilling ventures "blew up."

Instead he adopted a different means. He sold the list of stockholders' names—sucker lists they were called—to another concern which was in the business of merging defunct oil ventures.

On top of the profits he had made by holding back the unsent stock sale receipts, Carruth got another slice from the other concern for the lists of his stockholders.

It was here that the government grabbed him. Carruth pleaded guilty. Nor is it any satisfaction to stockholders that the other concern and its officials also are under indictment.

The later outfit was a merger concern. "Mergers," so-called, did two things:

They let the original promoter out of his defunct company, ending responsibility to his stockholders.

They enabled the "merger" company to sell its own stock at a usual 25 per cent cash payment in exchange for stock held in the original company.

The usual practice was to have the promoter and trustee, who were one and the same, in the company to be merged, send a letter to his stockholders telling them that he had consented to the merger "to protect them."

He would paint a glowing picture of the absorbing enterprises and chances of the stockholders who "went along" with the new company.

The rest is repetition. The stockholder bit. He exchanged his stock, share for share, for stock in the merging company, plus a 25 per cent cash premium on the total amount.

Other Methods

If the subscriber wouldn't buy any more, he was made to "kick in" to protect what he already had paid out.

Coming and going crooked promoters had the investor on all sides. They sold him out and bought him in. Like a football and shuttlecock he was run all over the promoter's lot.

He had been promised rivers of oil, and instead he got rivers of tears and teacups of oil.

Writing "high-powered" fake oil stock ads to "banana" song "Public played on a phonograph is one of the places Gibbons covers in his next article.

THE QUESTION

How many players must there be in the line of scrimmage when the ball is put into play? Is it permissible for the players on the line of scrimmage to lock legs in an effort to make it a more difficult matter for the man with the ball to gain through their point in the line? How is it determined by the officials when a player is on the line of scrimmage?

THE ANSWER

There must be at least seven players of the side holding the ball on the line of scrimmage. A player is considered on the line of scrimmage when he has both hands or both feet or if he has one foot and the opposite hand up to within one foot of it. No player with the exception of the men playing next to the center, known as the guards, are permitted to lock legs. The guards have a right to lock legs with the snapper back but other players must stand with both feet outside the outside foot of the player next to him. In the old game, where open play was a rarity, the forwards as a rule huddled closely together in order to present a stronger defense. However, the open style game calls for a loose line and locking of legs is a rarity even by the guards.
